Theresa Burke and Mother Teresa

“My spiritual relationship with Mother Teresa goes way back to high school.”

Mother's order ran a soup kitchen in Norristown, PA, and Theresa worked there. When Theresa later ran a youth group, she brought the kids to work there.

The sisters made big pots of soup; they would cut the rotten parts of fruit out before they served it, and “they were using peelers that were crappy. I was thinking if I brought my LaMachine, they could do it in one hour instead of four. But one of the sisters told me that was not Mother Teresa's way.” That the harder the work was, the better. “That's kind of a mind-altering spirituality, that sometimes the easy way is not the most spiritual way.”

Theresa's brother, a doctor, treated some of Mother Teresa's nuns for free. “They never know what the day would bring. They live on divine providence.”

Theresa, would pick up day-old bread and vegetables that stores were about to throw out and give them to the Sisters of Charity. “That would feed a few hundred people with what was going to be thrown away. I did that for years.”

Theresa was named for St. Therese de Lesieux. “The spirit of Mother Teresa was along the lines of St. Therese and her ‘little way.’”

Some of Mother Teresa's sisters were referred to Theresa for counseling. “There was always a line of nuns waiting for these appointments. Sometimes it felt overwhelming. But I heard in my prayer heart that love will hurt.”

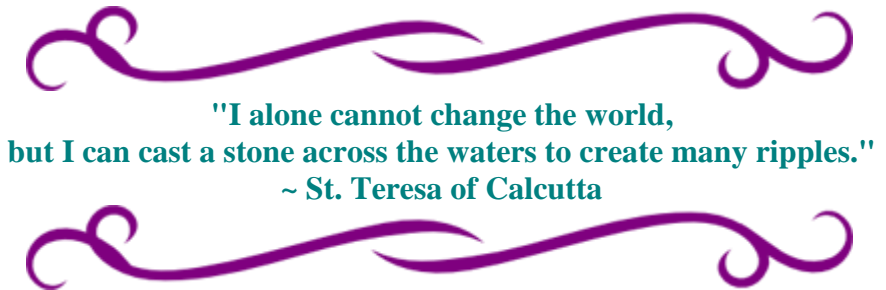

“When Mother Teresa died, Rachel's Vineyard was just starting to spread. I was anxious because I had to be away from home. Kevin wasn't sure he wanted me to do this. I was at a retreat with 23 people and Eucharistic miracles were happening. Mother Teresa had just died that weekend. I prayed to her – please help. Give me your heart because mine isn't big enough. I had a spiritual experience. I felt my heart breaking open from all the pain I had witnessed and I felt incredible joy at the same time. Kevin was home and he was also praying. A kind of peace came over him and he said, ‘Let it be done according to your will. She doesn't belong to me anymore.’”

“Mother Teresa had our backs. She was always calling on me to trust. She’s been a great friend, even after her death. I pray to her, and I have my prayers answered.”

During a difficult period after I broke my foot, I prayed for a miracle, for her to heal me. I felt a full body tremor. I had hoped my miracle would count for her canonization but she intercedes for a lot of people. I’m just really happy that she’s going to be a saint. She already is a saint.

“One of Mother’s sisters gave me a big piece of fabric that was part of her habit, and I cut it into little pieces to distribute the relic to those who have lost a child.”

“I go to visit Mother Teresa’s houses wherever I go – I go through a lot of bad neighborhoods! I’ve been invited to Calcutta many times, but I’ve never gone, but I know that her intercession and presence have been so powerful in my life.”

Woman set free from abortion shame recalls trauma: 'He dropped me off outside a surgery and drove off'

This is the testimony of Sue*, aged 47, about how her abortion affected her life.

WHEN I was 20, I met a young man and we started a relationship. We moved in to a flat together and it was an intense beginning to early adult life.

My boyfriend told me often that he loved me and there were numerous romantic gestures he showered over me. However, he would often put me down with mean words, take money from me so he could take drugs and he rarely had a job. I knew something was wrong though I didn't know what to do about it.

After our one-year anniversary, I fell pregnant and I was excited that something good had happened to me – the girl with anxiety and a boyfriend who was inconsistent with his love and actions.

When the doctor gave us our results, my boyfriend turned to him and said, “How do we get rid of it?” My first thought was, “I’m not getting rid of it” although I didn't verbalise it.

We drove home and I looked up a women's health book and found a page about the growth of embryos. I knew it was already the size of a grain of rice and was beginning to develop into a foetus with a heartbeat.

I read this out loud to my boyfriend who said, “Don't look at it”. I kept quiet about my pregnancy and, having moved states, I hadn't made friends yet.

I was estranged from my family and didn't confide in them about my situation.

My boyfriend organised appointments at an abortion clinic which I refused to go to. One day he put me in the car and drove me there.

I don't know what day it was, what time or where I went. I was extremely anxious and couldn't think straight.

He dropped me off outside a surgery and drove off. I stood there, alone, looking at the building. I felt I would collapse.

I was so traumatised and I was scared that my emotional overload might kill me right there on the spot.

It was the mid-1980s and I had no money, no friends, no family support and nowhere to go. How had I arrived at this point in my life?

Something propelled me inside the door and before the abortion procedure I felt sick. The doctors went ahead with the procedure and I woke up from the anaesthetic vomiting.

I wasn't only physically sick, I felt sick in my soul and heart. How would I live with myself? My boyfriend picked me up and we went back to our little flat. I was heartbroken.

Our relationship quickly deteriorated and he became abusive in every way until four years later I finally left.

At this point, I had an emotional and mental breakdown and was close to being anorexic. What had happened to my life? I had been so traumatised from enduring a forced abortion that I had loads of emotional and physical issues.

The depth of the trauma was so powerful that I forgot I had gone through this procedure. It was 15 years after the event when I was 35 that I was at church and reminded of this horrible experience.

I swayed as I walked with the realisation of what happened and I found a chair to sit in before I collapsed.

As time went by, I heard of a healing retreat that healed women and men from the trauma of an abortion experience.

Could it be possible? Hope rose in my heart.

I researched a great deal about the retreat and, with a new-found faith that had healed much of the sadness in my life, I had another step to go.

So I went to a Rachel's Vineyard retreat for the weekend and found the healing and freedom I had long wanted for nearly three decades.

There was a small group who gathered to share their stories of having been through an abortion and we all empathised with the other's experience.

There was a lot of acceptance and love shown to all the women in this predicament by the leaders of the retreat. They were kind, supportive, understanding, listened and were non-judgemental.

They walked us through a process of being set free from the trauma of our experiences. It was a safe place to be and there was respect for each person involved in the retreat.

On the Sunday afternoon when the retreat was finished, my life did a 180-degree turn to the road of forgiving myself and being set free from the abortion.

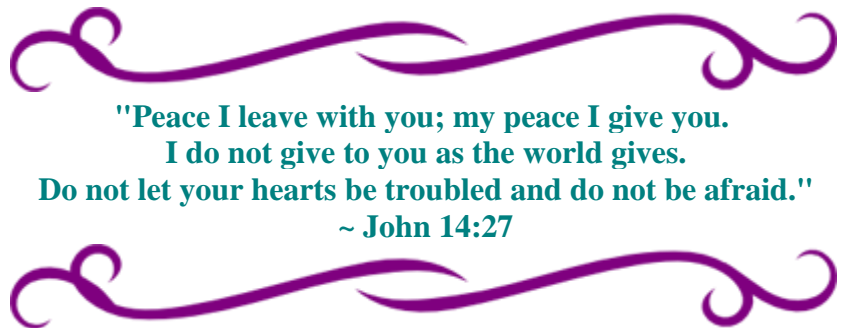

I honestly felt liberated and happy deep down in my soul and spirit. It was a wonderful and new feeling that set me free.

So, take courage. It is a liberating experience to attend a Rachel's Vineyard retreat that is set in a loving, non-judgemental environment.

I know that if you have lived with the regret and trauma of having an abortion, Rachel's Vineyard can help you too.

Rachel's Vineyard is a retreat weekend for people who have been affected by an abortion, whether they be the mother, father, grandparent. It is a weekend which can assist people in the healing process. General information can be found on the Australian website. Message from the Pastoral Director

October 2016

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

As we approach our national elections, the work of Rachel's Vineyard continues, in a completely non-partisan way, to raise awareness -- including in the minds and hearts of politicians and candidates -- about the damage abortion does to women, men, families and our entire world. In fact, as people debate about abortion and public policy, the awareness of the wounds that abortion brings continues to grow, and can influence public policy, and the decisions of public officials as to whether they think abortion should continue.

I also wanted to bring to your attention the International Week of Prayer and Fasting from October 2-10. This is a call for all Christians to participate in a global network of prayer and fasting for these three goals:

- 1) To Pray and Fast for the conversion of peoples and nations
- 2) To Pray and Fast to build a Culture of Life
- 3) To Pray and Fast for Peace and for Mercy in Our World

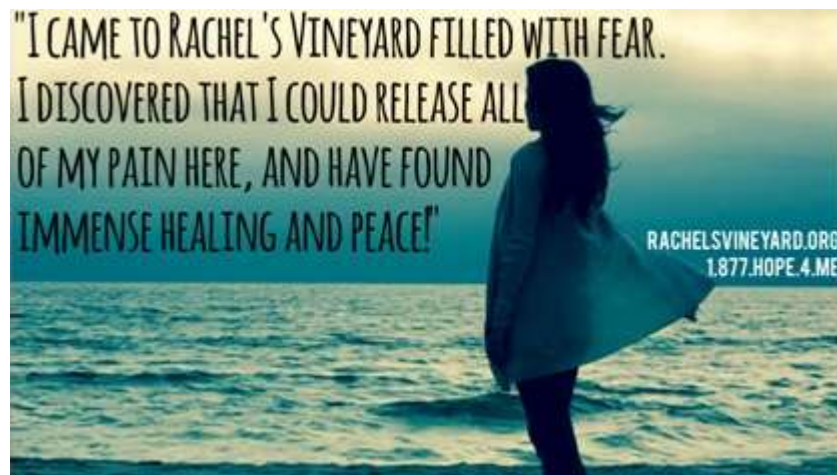

For more information and to find ways to help promote this event please see iwopf.org.

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Parone

go instead where there is no path and leave a trail."

United in Prayer

Please pray for the repose of Anne Sherston's mother, Josephine, who passed away on August, 7, 2016. Anne said, "Her long journey is now complete. Thank you all for your prayers and support." Please keep Anne, Josephine, and the rest of their family and friends in your prayers.

Please pray for the repose of Jim Easton's soul. Jim lost his brave battle with brain cancer. He and his wife Mary have been prayer warriors for the Fresno team since they began in 2002. Please keep him, and his family in your prayers.

Please pray for the repose of Shelly Stone's soul. Shelly was a champion of Rachel's Vineyard and helped to train many of our sites. She was also active within Grief to Grace. Please keep her family in your prayers as well.

Please pray for Anne Neville's son as he battles stomach and liver cancer. Anne is a Rachel's Vineyard team member from Hobart, Australia.
