The Vicarious Trauma of Jane Roe The Mysterious Journey of Norma McCorvey from Champion of Choice to Rachel's Vineyard By Janet Morana and Kevin Burke, LSW

When we hear of vicarious trauma, we often think of first responders, the brave men and women who serve as firefighters, emergency medical technicians, and police officers.

There is a growing awareness of the importance of offering counseling and support for these public servants after repeated exposure to accidents, violence, injury, loss of life, and other tragedy.

With that in mind, imagine if you came to understand that you were directly responsible for the death of close to 60 million people?

Would you also be vulnerable to vicarious trauma?

Norma McCorvey, the "Jane Roe" of Roe v. Wade, died Feb. 18 at the age of 69. In 1973 her lawyers challenged Texas's law preventing her from aborting her baby and opening the floodgates for abortion on demand in the United States. Ironically, Norma herself never ended up having an abortion.

After the court ruling, Norma worked for a time in the abortion industry, and was often shocked by what she saw:

"I worked in several abortion facilities over the years... the most distressing room in the facility was the "parts room". Aborted babies were stored here. There were dead babies and baby parts stacked like cordwood... little tiny hands and feet visible through the jars, frozen in blood."

As the years passed Norma came to regret her role in the legalization of abortion.

She shares:

“Back in 1973 I was a very confused 21 year old and facing an unplanned pregnancy... my case, which legalized abortion on demand, was the biggest mistake of my life,” she says.

Even if you support the Roe v. Wade decision, imagine the burden Norma carried as she moved over time to embrace a pro-life perspective on abortion.

After her exposure to the shocking reality of what “choice” does to the fetus, Norma no longer saw the unborn child as a “potential life” or a “clump of cells.” She came to consider each of those nearly 60 million abortions as the death of a unique member of the human family.

Imagine the horror and trauma of feeling directly responsible for the death of millions of unborn children.

The Shockwaves of Trauma

Without counsel and support those who experience emotional trauma suffer painful and at times debilitating symptoms such as depression, anxiety, sleep disturbance, with triggers and flash backs to the traumatic event. They may act out that pain in relationships and try to numb their feelings and find some relief and escape from their pain through impulsive behaviors and addictions.

Norma struggled before, and more intensely after Roe v. Wade, with depression, anxiety and addiction. Yet she would find great peace and consolation from the most unlikely of places — an abortion recovery group.

Finding Peace in the Vineyard

In the mid-1990s, Norma began a process of religious conversion that eventually led to her baptism by Rev. Flip Benham in 1995 and her reception into the Catholic Church by Fr. Frank Pavone in 1998.

As part of her recovery from the traumatic association with Roe v. Wade, she attended a group treatment program of emotional and spiritual healing for those who are hurting after abortion called Rachel's Vineyard.

(Note: Kevin is the co-founder of Rachel's Vineyard, which is now a ministry of Priests for Life. Janet accompanied Norma on the retreat, and his wife Dr. Theresa Burke was the lead facilitator.)

As Norma gathered with these women she found a safe place to share her own unique pain and suffering. She discovered others like herself, who experienced abuse in their childhood, and struggled with addiction. Norma learned that previous abuse made women vulnerable to dysfunctional and abusive relationships.

She came to see that their stories echoed her own experience as plaintiff Roe: a desperate woman with past abuse, struggling with a third pregnancy and exploited by the pro-abortion attorneys promoting the legalization of abortion.

Norma saw that not all women feel empowered by their abortion decision. Many are hurting after abortion, especially those with past abuse and trauma, and were victims exploited by the abortion industry at a vulnerable time.

Norma listened closely as women shared that they were told by counselors and abortion business staff that abortion was the only the possible option given their histories and circumstances.

Yet the participation in their unborn child's death only intensified their pre-abortion symptoms and led to more addiction, emotional pain, and repeat abortion procedures.

As Norma watched the women move from fear, anger, and pain to peace and new life in the Lord, she began to see that there was hope for healing those wounded by abortion. This was a great consolation and helped ease the burden of guilt and anguish she carried in her heart and soul.

After recovery, Norma became part of the Silent No More Awareness Campaign, a group that provides a network for education and sharing testimonies about the Shockwaves of abortion loss and healing. Norma found a public place of support where she could share the deep regret for her role in Roe v. Wade, how this hurt her, and the good news of God's mercy and healing.

As the pro-life movement and the Church continue their efforts to promote that mercy and healing, the passing of Norma, and the remembrance of her story, certainly give to all those in pain and despair a new reason to hope.

A Letter to Theresa Burke

Dear Dr. Theresa Burke,

I would like to share with you how salvation came to our home because of Rachel's Vineyard.

More than 35 years ago, my parents found themselves newlywed, with a 1 month old baby, and again with child. Heartbreakingly, they bought into the lie that abortion was an answer to their fear over this new life circumstance. Since that moment, they promised to keep that choice a secret. Years passed, and they had three more children (myself included). Growing up, we were taken for our sacraments, but never fully alive in the faith. We did not even own a Bible. Fast forward to 2007, my mother came across a bulletin for Rachel's Vineyard, and our lives changed forever. Because of my parent's healing at Rachel's Vineyard, they were able to come home and open up their hearts to us (my siblings and I). The cloud of sadness which had loomed over our family life for so many years finally disappeared...with the power of God's truth and God's love. We came to know Jesus in a profound way through experiencing with my parents His healing power. Today, we live for The Lord, sharing the good news and giving Him praise for all His blessings and graces.

In closing, I just want you to know that my family and I deeply appreciate you and the work the Lord entrusted you with. Rachel's Vineyard is a treasure for our Church...a gift that transformed our lives. Please know you, you're team, and your family are always in our prayers.

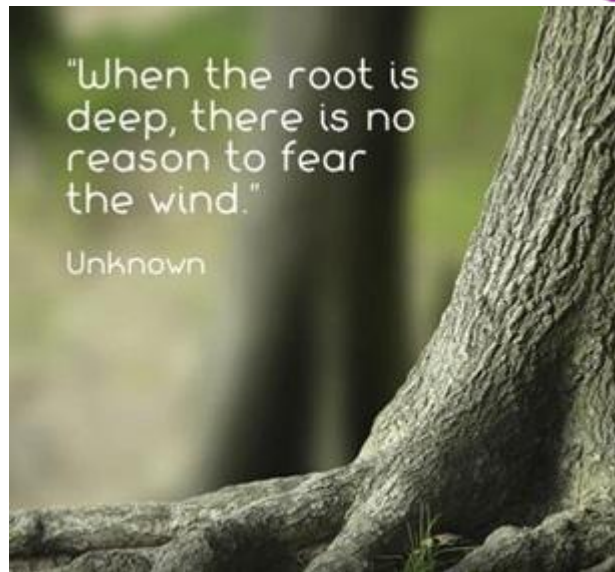

God BLESS YOU!

Love,
Yesenia Lepe

Message from the Pastoral Director

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

What is our first spiritual duty when it comes to responding to the ongoing problem of abortion?

Many will say that it is prayer -- but our first spiritual duty is repentance.

When even a single abortion happens in our land, all of us in the land are implicated in it.

We truly are one human family, responsible for one another.

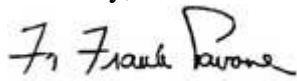

Even, therefore, if we have not had personal, direct involvement in an abortion, that abortion requires us to respond, in solidarity with the baby, the Mom, the Dad, the whole family. Those wounded by that abortion -- and the wounded are many -- are all our brothers and sisters.

That is why -- especially in this Lenten season of repentance -- we can ask ourselves each day, Is there more I can be doing to show my solidarity, my compassion, for those wounded by abortion, and do everything I can to prevent more wounds in the future?

The truth that we are all in this together reminds us that there is no such thing as an isolated abortion. Not only do we all share responsibility, but we all share the pain and the healing. Nobody should be allowed to feel that they are suffering alone. If we all let our hearts be broken by abortion, we can all share that journey from pain to peace.

Rachel's Vineyard Ministries embodies this truth beautifully in the group dynamics of the retreats. Let's pray that especially during this Lent, our ministry may continue to accompany countless people on this healing journey that involves us all!

Sincerely,

Fr. Frank Pavone
Pastoral Director, Rachel's Vineyard National Director, Priests for Life

Rachel's Vineyard Recommends: Essential Oils

doTERRA oils are Certified Pure Therapeutic Grade oils that are 3rd party tested for purity and potency (with zero synthetics; all testing available to review) that can effect change in the body and mind. These truly are not the same quality as any other oils out there, and certainly different than what you can purchase from even the highest quality health food store.

I count this as a blessing and even a ministry to assist others with their journey to health, wholeness and healing (I'm right there on the path too!) So please feel free to contact me so that I can help you and your family create a house of healing in your own home. There are 2 ways to order: RETAIL and WHOLESale.

You can order retail right from my website and the oils will come straight from doTERRA, but few people do this as it is only $35 for a yearly wholesale membership (like Costco) and those prices are 25% below retail. There is no obligation to purchase again. February is an incredible month to join as I have a voucher code for $100 in free oils for those who purchase this month and next. It's really very easy and I can walk you through it over the phone.

www.mydoterra.com/jenniferbrowner (this is my website and it has great intro videos if you are new to the world of how Therapeutic essential oils work)

My contact info: Jennifer Browner housesofhealingdt@gmail.com 810-588-9239 (call and leave a message or text is fine too)

May God continue to bless us all on our journeys to wholeness and healing so that our gifts and light may bless others! Courage!
