Democrats win in November? Expect Planned Parenthood to be a Federal Agency

By Fr. Frank Pavone

Whether it's in U.S. Supreme Court nomination battles, presidential campaigns, or their conduct when in control of the U.S. House of Representatives, observe closely the behavior of the Democratic Party. You'll see that abortion is the sacred dogma and driving force behind everything else.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi has even attempted multiple times to shove abortion funding in bills meant to help America overcome the coronavirus pandemic. And all this explains why Democratic members of Congress, even during Republican-led hearings to investigate Planned Parenthood, will never utter a negative word about Planned Parenthood.

Excerpts from interviews of Fr. Frank

Recently Father Frank Pavone, National Director of Priests for Life, sat down with his communications director, Leslie Palma, and executive manager, Theresa Watson, to talk about a wide range of questions about Fr. Frank's life and work. He gives some insights into his personal life not discussed anywhere else. To watch the interviews in full and read the transcripts, visit FrFrank.org.

FR. FRANK REPORTS...

Planned Parenthood

This organization, presenting itself as committed to "healthcare," is actually a political machine pumping tens of millions of dollars each election year into Democratic campaigns, in order to keep abortion legal.

Planned Parenthood has invested all those millions because it expects a big payday. They hope that payday could come in January.

If Democrats retake the White House and Senate, keeping control of the House, many in the anti-abortion movement expect that Planned Parenthood would become a cabinet-level federal agency, following a trajectory not unlike that of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

President Ronald Reagan signed an executive order in 1988 to elevate the agency to cabinet level. His successor, President George H.W. Bush, said of the new department, "There is only one place for the Veterans of America, in the Cabinet Room, at the table with the president of the United States of America."

Substitute the word "women" for "veterans" and you'll see the kind of glossy sheen Democrats would apply to a cabinet-level Planned Parenthood.

By this move, Planned Parenthood would do an end-run around two constant battles, that of funding or defunding the mega-abortion business, and that of having access to the public schools.

Taxpayers would be forced to fund abortion through all nine months of pregnancy and for any reason. Planned Parenthood – likely with a new, family friendly name – will take over school health departments and sex education programs will aim – as they do now – to ensure that every student will become sexually active as early as possible.

With Democrats in charge, socialized medicine in place and Planned Parenthood in the Cabinet, all of this is possible, and be assured that Planned Parenthood is already planning for such a reality. Why else would they continue building mega-abortion facilities even as the number of abortions plummets?

All of this would be happening now if Hillary Clinton had become our 45th president. Make no mistake that it would happen if a Democrat – any Democrat – becomes our 46th.

Here are some of the highlights from those interviews:

Question: How has the Coronavirus pandemic impacted the work of Priests for Life?

Fr. Frank Pavone: It certainly has changed life for all of us, in particular for me and for our Priests for Life Team including Janet Morana and Alveda King; the Rachel's Vineyard Team; Bryan Kemper, Father Denis Wilde, our Associate Director, and all of us who travel and speak constantly.

We're on planes several times a week, and all of a sudden, everything started getting canceled. There were many, many events planned for the latter part of March, April and May. Even into the summer many of those events were canceled. So, not being up in planes all the time, personally, is a big change for me. Not being in person with the pro-life activists around the country and the world is something I miss.

However, the good thing about all this for Priests for Life is that we already had a very big footprint in online broadcasting. I mean what we're doing now on our Facebook page, our podcasting, our many video and social media platforms, we had already established an expertise in that area.

We're able to reach very large audiences. I offer the Mass every day live on Endabortion.tv and our other platforms. We're also doing live educational programs and rebroadcasting interviews from our archives.

The work of Priests for Life has not stopped.

Question: When you entered the priesthood, did you ever imagine that you'd be leading a worldwide ministry?

Fr. Frank Pavone: Not quite, but I had the heart for it. In my room, in my seminary I actually had a quote from a Protestant reformer on the wall, John Wesley. I had a map of the world on my wall and it said "All the world is my parish." Now, of course nobody can foresee the future, I didn't know that this conversation would be going to a worldwide audience. This whole ministry, Priest for Life, is worldwide. I didn't know that that would be the case, but that was my heart.

So God nurtured that fire in my heart. Some church leaders have been critical over the years and one in particular said my story is a reflection of narcissism, of selfishness. I'd like to ask him what signs he had on his wall. If I had a wall filled with pictures of myself, that's narcissism - but if you have a map of the world that says all the world is my parish, that's a desire for service. So I praise the Lord that he's fanned the flame of that desire every single day since then.

Question: Has the fact that some bishops have opposed your work affected Priests for Life?

Fr. Frank Pavone: It actually has not. There have been some bishops who oppose our work; some oppose it still. (Yet take a look at the many who support us strongly, at www.PriestsForLife.org/Praise.)

But for some odd reason, some bishops don't want me doing this work and I ask them,

FR. FRANK REPORTS...

tell me what part of the work you don't want me to do? Is it Rachel's Vineyard, healing the wounds of moms and dads who have been affected by abortion? What part of that do you not want me to do? Or announcing a project where we're urging pastors to put information in their parish bulletin, in their website, in their online broadcasting about how people can find alternatives to abortion?

What part of that would they not want me to do? We train pregnancy center staff and directors. We help clergy preach about abortion. I wrote an entire book about that (ProclaimingTheMessageOfLife.com). We lead prayer campaigns.

We do all this work and there are some that, for reasons that they've never explained - because those reasons simply don't exist with any logical persuasion - some don't want me doing the work that I do. They've never been able to say anything specific. So no, the fact that some leaders in the church are not saying and doing what needs to be said and done to stop abortion is in fact precisely not something that hurts Priests for Life, it's something that helps us grow.

I'm sure that many of those reading this right now can testify to the fact that they support our work precisely because we're saying the things they wish they heard in their church every Sunday and we're doing the things they wish the church leaders in their own church or diocese would do. That's been a key formula going back to your other question about how we've grown. We've done the things that need to be done. We've opened our mouths when too many priests have their mouths closed. A lot of priests want to open their mouths and that's where we give them the strength to do it and the resources.

Like some people say to me, "Why do you have to have Priests for Life, isn't every priest for life?" And I say, "Well we just help them to say so." And that's what people want.

Alveda King: The voice of reason in these unsettling times

Evangelist Alveda King, niece of Martin Luther King, Jr, has been working fulltime with Fr. Frank Pavone and Janet Morana of Priests for Life for some 15 years now. She originally met Fr. Frank in 1999 and they began collaborating. Alveda eventually joined the Silent No More Campaign (a joint project of Priests for Life and Anglicans for Life) because of her own abortions, and then came on board fulltime with Priests for Life.

She directs "Civil Rights for the Unborn," our outreach to the Black community and all people who see the struggle for equality for the unborn as the civil rights movement of today.

Alveda continues to use her God-given voice for television, radio, print media, social media and any other opportunity God allows. During May and June, while sheltering in during COVID-19, she has still been busy.

FR. FRANK REPORTS...

Alveda has a regular program on our own online broadcast network, EndAbortion.TV, and also does a regular live prayer broadcast with Fr. Frank each week to pray for the intentions of our viewers.

In the wake of the George Floyd killing in Minneapolis, the anti-police brutality protests and violent riots that rocked the nation and the toppling of statues of Confederate leaders, U.S. presidents and even one Catholic saint, networks and news outlets have been calling on Alveda to be the voice of reason.

As a Fox News contributor, she was featured on numerous shows on the network, and also appeared on the Christian Broadcast Network and EWTN. She also spoke to Christian, Catholic and secular radio hosts from coast to coast, was quoted by news outlets and published her own commentary.

Through more than 70 interviews, she never disappointed.

Like her uncle, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Alveda called for calm and peaceful protests.

"Non-violence is the only way to get things done," she said.

"If you find yourself going into a rage over a statue, step back and reexamine the human heart and what we can do together to discuss and resolve this without destruction and with violence."
