'A banquet that led to action' in Saginaw, Michigan

At a pro-life dinner in Saginaw, Michigan, Father Frank Pavone was delighted when the event kicked off with a recitation of the rosary.

"Everyone was already seated at their tables and we prayed the rosary," he said. "It was unique."

The dinner was organized by the Saginaw Diocesan Division of the World Apostolate of Fatima and attended by 350 people described by Father Frank as "very committed pro-lifers."

In his remarks to the group, he spoke of one of his visits to Mother Teresa of Calcutta when she told him that she herself did sidewalk counseling outside abortion facilities in India.

Father Frank recently visited the dioceses of Nashville and Saginaw in the course of his nationwide travels. Priests for Life has served all the dioceses with pro-life teachings and materials for clergy and laity since 1991.

"She described to me how she would pull them away from the killing center," he said. "I told the group

Father Pavone, Janet Morana attend historic bill signing in Florida

On April 14th, Father Frank Pavone and Janet Morana were invited to attend a bill-signing ceremony at Nacion De Fe Church in Kissimmee, Florida. Governor Ron DeSantis signed the Reducing Fetal and Infant Mortality Act. This bill calls for babies in the womb to be protected from abortion once they have reached 15 weeks' gestation.

It was a moving ceremony, featuring remarks from the two legislators responsible for the bill - Sen. Kelli Stargell and Rep. Erin Grall - as well as the testimonies of some moms who were pressured to abort, even made the decision to do so, but then changed their minds.

Janet Morana's new book - Everything You Need to Know About Abortion - For Teens tells the truth about the harm abortion causes to women, men and society is spelled out in easy-to-understand chapters each built around a central theme. Order at AbortionAndTeens.com that we need to be more like Mother Teresa, that pro-life means action. Tonight we can enjoy a nice dinner but tomorrow morning we should be out on the street at the places where babies are being killed."

And indeed, the next morning, many of those from the dinner were outside a Saginaw abortion business with Father Frank.

"I would say there were 80 people there, and a number of them said they felt drawn to be there for the first time," he said. "This was a banquet that led to action."

"This will represent the most significant protections for life that have been enacted in this state in a generation," the governor said before signing the bill.

Florida has joined a number of Republican-led states that are putting in place meaningful protections for the unborn.

- Oklahoma Gov. Kevin Stitt signed a law making it a felony to perform abortion in his state.
- Idaho passed a Texas-style Heartbeat act that would protect babies from abortion once a heartbeat can be detected. A lawsuit filed by Planned Parenthood has put that law on hold temporarily.
- Kentucky ended abortion in the state on a Wednesday in April as pro-life legislators voted to override pro-abortion Gov. Andy Beshear's veto of pro-life legislation. The law imposes certain requirements on abortion sellers, including a provision requiring that fetal remains be cremated or interred. Abortion mills say it would be too expensive to comply - telling you everything you need to know about abortion being women's healthcare or "reproductive justice." Profit is the real motivation for keeping abortion legal and accessible, no matter how brutal it is to the baby or how dangerous for the mom.

Heartbeat bills, 15-week laws and other measures give us cause to celebrate, but our fight to end legal abortion is not over. We must continue to advocate for our brothers and sisters in the womb, no matter how small, until every one of them is safe.

Priests for Life leads prayers with 40 Days for Life

Father Frank Pavone's travels this spring brought him to five 40 Days for Life vigils outside abortion centers. (Years ago, when 40 Days first transitioned from a local to a national level, Fr. Frank was involved in the process to make that successful.)

While attending the National Religious Broadcasters' conference in Nashville recently, he took time out to pray with those gathered outside a Planned Parenthood there. In Jacksonville, Florida, where he and Janet Morana led a workshop at the Heartbeat International Conference, they both took time out to pray with other pro-lifers outside a Planned Parenthood killing center.

During a trip to Maryland, Father Frank led the closing rallies at two 40 Days sites, in Lutherville and Catonsville. And at the flagship Planned Parenthood abortuary in Washington, D.C., Father Frank was on hand to lead a closing prayer, helping to wrap up another successful season for 40 Days for Life.

"Not a single one of these places had any kind of organized counter-protest," Father Frank said. "It was very encouraging."

The Lenten campaign this year took place in a record 588 locations.

Pre-registering youth to vote in these critical elections

With kids home from school for the summer in many parts of the country, this is a great opportunity to consider helping pre-registering your teenage child to vote in the upcoming primaries depending on the laws of your state.

Preregistration is a process that allows youth under the age of 18 to register to vote prior to their 18th birthday such that when they do indeed turn 18, they are then automatically added to the voter rolls and eligible to cast a ballot. Some states allow for 16-year-olds and 17-year-olds to preregister. Other states do not have specific age restrictions but allow any youth to preregister prior to their 18th birthdays provided they will be 18 by the next General Election.

While the exact ages and laws vary by state, one would generally fill out a pre-registration application, and then would be added to the voter registration rolls with a "pending" or "preregistration" status until his/her 18th birthday.

Too many young eligible voters are not properly registered to vote; finishing high school and launching their own lives, whether in college or the workforce, is undeniably a huge life transition. Registering to vote when someone has never done it before amidst these life transitions can easily fall through the cracks. While your child is home this summer with possibly greater access to your assistance, it could be a great time to help him or her with the process of pre-registering to vote especially before going to college this fall or starting a new job.

Priests for Life staff donates formula to local pregnancy center

Gift Entry Liaison Christine Kessler, a longtime Priests for Life employee who made the move to Florida from New York with the ministry, was scrolling through Facebook one day when she saw a post from the Beta Pregnancy Care Center in Titusville that it was running low on infant formula and was hoping for some donations.

Christine brought the request to the morning briefing that starts each day for the Priests for Life staff. Anyone who wanted to donate either cash or formula was invited to do so. Staffers ended up donating $430, which our receptionists Traci Kirk and Tammy Journey used to buy formula.

Christine and Traci delivered the bounty to the center, where Executive Director Kimberly Severson was happy to receive it.

"With the infant formula shortage going on in our country for several weeks, our clients were beginning to struggle to find the infant formula they needed," she wrote in a letter to the staff. "Our clients were beginning to dilute the baby's formula, thus depleting the nutritional content to make it last longer. Needless to say, we were surprised and blessed when Priests for Life arrived with boxes of much needed formula for our clients. The infant formula has been distributed to clients who were in dire need. "

"I'm so proud of our staff," said Priests for Life Executive Director Janet Morana. "Not only have they devoted their careers to working to end abortion, but when faced with an immediate need, they did not hesitate to step up and help."

Priests for Life demands proper burial for DC aborted babies

Bryan Kemper

Youth Outreach Director

I recently traveled to Washington DC to lead a rally in front on the medical examiner's office where the five remaining babies rescued from the medical waste truck who have not been buried yet are being held.

A few weeks-ago pro-life activists with PAAU (Progressive Anti-abortion Uprising) talked to the driver of the medical waste truck, he was unaware that the so called "medical waste" he was picking up was actually 115 bodies of aborted babies killed in the Washington Surgi-clinic Abortion Mill in DC. When they went through the boxes, they were shocked to find five very late term abortion victims, one of the still in the amniotic sac.

As of writing this, one hundred ten of the babies have received a proper burial and funeral. The five late term victims remain in the medical examiner's office in Washington DC but no autopsies have been performed and no plans are set in place for this to happen. The Mayor of DC is refusing to order an autopsy or an investigation into the probable illegal abortions that took place in that abortion mill.

I joined the activists from PAUU and other pro-life leaders and activists for a rally that Priests for Life hosted in which we demanded action from the medical examiner and the mayor. We displayed photos of the victims to show the world the truth and expose this abortionist. I read the letters written to the Mayor by Senators Lee and Lankford as well as a special message from Father Frank who was leading prayers at abortion mills in Maryland that day.

With several speakers from various pro-life organizations and Lauren Handy, one of the activists who retrieved the babies, we gave dignity to these precious souls. After the rally we all laid flowers on the steps of the medical examiner's office and sang together a beautiful song written by Terrisa Bukovinac the founder of PAAU.

We are still calling on the mayor to order an autopsy and investigation into these illegal abortions as well as a funeral and proper burial. We will continue to keep you updated as we learn the fate of these precious babies.

NB - Back in 2013, Fr. Frank and I were in a similar situation at the Philadelphia Medical Examiner's office, where we were asking for the 47 bodies they had of babies killed by abortionist Kermit Gosnell. The Medical Examiner refused the request and ultimately cremated the babies. They were buried at a local cemetery where Fr. Frank has led several memorial services.
