Elections 2020: "Watch Parties" are a great Voter Education Tool

One of the ways we fulfill our Christian obligation to take part in our nation's political process is to become an informed voter, and to help other voters to become well-informed.

Fr. Frank Pavone spoke at the National Right to Life Convention in July. Here he is with Kathy Schmutge, Director of Family Life for the Diocese of Charleston, a longtime friend of Priests for Life. She says, "I have been so grateful for the work of Priests for Life. They have been such an incredible support to our Office of Family Life, which includes Respect Life. I don't know what I would do without their beautiful prayers, their liturgy aids, and all of the things that they have helped me do as the diocesan director for so very long. I am so grateful to Father Pavone and to all the Priests for Life and their good work."

An Urgent Call to A Full-time Commitment to End Abortion and Protect the Youngest Children

By Fr. Frank Pavone, National Director

This is an excerpt of a longer statement issued by Fr. Frank Pavone that can be read and viewed at www.PriestsForLife.org/UrgentCall.

Many are being called to leave their professions and take those professional skills and devote them to the cause of protecting the unborn, and I want to say today that it is time to answer that call. I want to fan the flames that are stirring in many hearts that realize that the right to life itself, which is being denied to children still living in the womb, is in fact one of the founding principles of this nation, and is the foundation of the entire fabric of social justice.

Teen whose mom was helped by Priests for Life calls to say hello

Thirteen-year-old Manjalyn Faith Massaley called Priests for Life recently to say hello and thank you.

When Manjalyn's mom, Julien Kalonje, was pregnant with her, the baby's father wanted Julien to abort. Knowing she did not want to make that tragic mistake, Julien reached out to Priests for Life for help. Her first contact was with Elisa Fagundes, who was then the public outreach coordinator in the

An Urgent Call to A Full-time Commitment to End Abortion and Protect the Youngest Children - continued from Page 1

If, therefore, our Founding Fathers were justified in giving themselves completely to fight for God-given rights, and if anyone at any time has been justified in giving him or herself completely to the service of those who were oppressed by any injustice, then at the present moment, it is justified for us to give ourselves to the great cause of ending abortion.

Abortion remains the most urgent social and moral problem we face. Nothing in America or in the world is taking more lives than abortion, and these are the weakest and most defenseless human beings.

Fighting and ending abortion is priority number one, both for the Church, the state, the family, and each of us individually.

Not only is all this true in and of itself, but added to this are the current circumstances in America, which truly constitute a "Pro-life Moment" of perhaps unprecedented intensity and opportunity.

The abortion issue has reached a boiling point in America. The abortion supporters are more brazen than ever; pro-life people are taking more courageous steps than ever; and our national elections provide us the most important opportunity ever to secure legal protection for these children.

While this issue has always deserved the full-time commitment of our citizens, there has never been a more appropriate or urgent moment for such a commitment than now, nor ever a moment that had more promise for the fruits of such a commitment.

We can accomplish both of those things by holding a "Watch Party" for the various rallies that President Trump is holding across the country.

At www.RallyWatchParty.org, you will find some simple links at which you can find the schedule of these rallies, as well as the recordings of the rallies that have already taken place.

The idea is simple. Whether it is to watch a live rally, or a recording of a recent rally, host a "Watch Party" by inviting people to join you to see the President's speech.

It may be a whole group of people at your home, church, or K of C hall, or it may be just you and a couple of friends watching at your computer. In any case, just get together and watch!

Those who get their news from the networks and the other left-leaning media are not getting a fair and accurate picture of the President's many accomplishments, especially in the pro-life arena.

By watching this rally, you will hear first-hand from the President himself about many of the things he has accomplished in two-and-a-half-years in the Oval Office.

(Incidentally, a great online source at which to keep track of these accomplishments is www.PromisesKept.com.)

Besides hearing about these accomplishments, the rallies will let you hear the President articulate what he and his party stand for – including the freedom of the Church, the freedom of our economy, the strength of our military, the sanctity of life, the greatness of our country, and the value of our faith and reliance on Almighty God.

I am confident you that you, and those who watch with you, will be inspired, pleasantly surprised, and much more well informed than you are now.

You will also hear, clearly spelled out, the dangers that we face from the Democrat party and the extreme, radical positions it currently embraces.

As an added way of participating, you can post some comments on social media along with links to the online recording of the rally. Again, everything you need is at www.RallyWatchParty.org. On that page you can let us know that you are hosting or participating in one of these rally watch parties.

Of course, if you can't host or attend a party, I strongly suggest you watch the rally anyway. You will experience all the camaraderie and exuberance of the live event. Afterward you can post a link to the rally on your social media platforms.

ministry's Staten Island headquarters. Elisa spoke to her, then followed up with a letter and then drove to Brooklyn to meet with Julien.

A year or so later, Julien, who came to the United States from Jamaica in 2001, visited the office with her baby, and a picture of them with the elated staff hung in the Staten Island office.

This spring, Julien reached out to Priests for Life again, this time reaching the new office in Titusville, Florida. She wanted us to know that Manjalyn was now 13 and attending a Catholic school in Brooklyn. She had a chance to speak to both Father Frank Pavone and Janet Morana and told them how blessed she is to have her daughter.

Around Mother's Day, Priests for Life videographer Curt Ciumei, a New Jersey resident, visited Julien and Manjalyn in their apartment to tape an interview with them.

"Every time a baby is saved, it's a miracle," Father Frank said. "Very often, though, we don't get to meet or greet the mom and child we helped. Connecting with Julien again and getting to see Manjalyn was wonderful for all of us at Priests for Life."
