Seven new employees bring commitment to life to Priests for Life

When the Archdiocese of San Francisco organized a pro-life retreat 15 or so years ago, Mary Peterson was assigned to pick up one of the speakers at the airport and shepherd him to events.

She already knew the speaker by reputation.

"You can't be involved in pro-life and not know him," she said of her high-profile passenger, Father Frank Pavone. "That's why it was such an honor."

Mary is one of the newest employees of Rachel's Vineyard, the world's largest ministry for healing after abortion and, since 2003, a member of the Priests for Life family of ministries.

Shortly after Mary arrived at Rachel's Vineyard, the team there added a new member.

Kelly Dunne wanted something more than a job for her third career. After working in textile technology and then teaching middle school for more than 20 years, Kelly was looking for something that would give her a chance to use her teaching gifts and skills in a job that involved ministry. She saw the Rachel's Vineyard job posted on Indeed.com and knew it was a good fit.

Three new employees have come to work at Priests for Life headquarters in Titusville, Florida.

Mary Stein, a recent graduate of Benedictine College in Atchison, Kansas, relocated to Florida from Charleston, South Carolina, and is working as the public outreach associate, a position that puts her in touch with many people who call, email or write to Priests for Life.

When she graduated, she said she looked for a job "where I could make an impact and help others. It breaks my heart to hear that some women think abortion is their only option. The pro-life movement is so important and I want to do my part to help end abortion."

Rosa is a native of El Salvador who fled that nation's civil war with her mother and three older sisters in 1980. She grew up in Northern Virginia and lived there for more than 30 years before relocating to Cocoa, Florida. Before coming to Priests for Life, she spent more than 20 years working in real estate.

Fr. Frank Pavone was in New Mexico last month for 40 Days for Life events and was delighted to be joined by his brother priests who have been very supportive.

Join us for clergy training in the Good Shepherd Project

All priests, deacons, and clergy of all denominations are invited to join in Priests for Life's clergy seminars, which explore more details of both the theory and practice of the Church's pastoral response to abortion.

Since September 2021 we have been conducting these Zoom seminars on a regular basis. For decades, Priests for Life has gone into dioceses at the invitation of the bishop to Shelly Mostue was born and raised in Colorado, where her stepfather was a pastor who moved his family around the state as he continued to answer God's call. She moved East after her son relocated to Orlando and was working at the East Coast Christian Center before coming to Priests for Life and joining the data entry department.

Priests for Life also brought two interns on board to help with social media and broadcasting.

John Thomas is an electrical engineering student at Florida Polytechnic University in Lakeland, Florida. He's now part of the broadcast team.

Abraham Watkins came on board as an intern in our social media department. Abraham is a student at Liberty University in Lynchburg, VA, studying commercial music, with a focus on recording, engineering and production.

speak at clergy training days. Now we can present these trainings virtually, which will allow more clergy to attend.

Our seminars cover preaching and teaching on abortion, leading people to alternatives, healing the wounds, and mobilizing our congregations with concrete action.

We have guest presenters, including experts in abortion recovery like our own pastoral associate Dr. Theresa Burke; Dr. Martha Shuping (psychiatrist); and key researchers like Dr. David Reardon, Dr. Vincent Rue and others. The healing ministry we do is not just for the moms and dads, but for grandparents, siblings, the whole family, friends, and also abortionists who repent.

"Every priest I'm sure must be for life," said Bishop Michael Pfeifer, OMI, Bishop Emeritus of San Angelo, TX. "The thing is what we need to do is be much more expressive about this, because that's what we're about. We're about human life. Jesus became one of us, the Great Priest, precisely to touch all, and he's calling all of us bishops and priests. "So I encourage you, brother priests, to become much more active in preaching and also in taking action at a local level. ... I encourage you and pray for you and encourage, many more priests and people bishops to become involved in this vitally important ministry."

There is much to do. Let's do it together! Sign up for the Good Shepherd project at TheGoodShepherdProject.org.

Priests for Life in Austria

We encourage our German speaking prolife friends in Europe to follow the latest developments from Priests for Life (Austria) "Priester fuer das Leben Österreich" which was launched back on July 2nd, 2021. Their website and contact information can be found at <https://priesterfuerdasleben.org/>.

Priests for Life in Austria offers a number of services and resources, including close collaboration with Rachel's Vineyard "Rachels Weinberg®" in both Austria and Germany. For more information on retreats, and other services and resources please visit <https://rachelsweinberg.at/>
